

Debbie Campbell

Ever since she migrated from the country of Jamaica to the United States of America, Debbie sought to maintain her musical roots. Raised in a musical family, Debbie preserved her musical heritage while pursuing her education and career in the mental health field. Her instrument of choice is the keyboard and/or piano, which became the most comfortable means for her to gain access to the throne room of God in troubled times. Playing the keyboard and singing praise and worship songs has been a source of strength in her devotional life.

In her life's endeavors, not only has she been a member of musical bands, but she has been actively involved on praise and worship teams, in which she led worship services in churches within the South Florida region. She also played the keyboard for various church events. Her coordinating skills were demonstrated when she organized a gospel concert in the Fort Lauderdale area, which was entitled "Glory Night". Debbie's musical career also involves playing for weddings, concerts and other church and non-church events. She also assisted with developing music for choirs.

Among her other accomplishments, she is a published author, a poet, an aspiring songwriter, a senior writer contributor for the first Jamaican Community Forum website, a therapist, an educator and the biggest accomplishment is that she is one of the 'Aunties' to her nephew Max – (of course she believes she is the favorite- but that is still an on-going debatable fact with her sisters, Michelle and Nicky). Debbie currently resides in Boston, Massachusetts, surviving the winters and anticipating the day when she migrates to warmer weather- for good!
